Breakfast around the world

Girls: Good morning!

Dad: Morning, girls! Did you sleep well?

Paula: Yes, thank you.

Lorena: I didn't sleep for long...

Dad: Well, it sounds like you all might need some extra energy for today then. So what would you like for breakfast? I've got ...

Paula: I'll have a croissant and a cup of cocoa!... Please.

Dad: Well, I'm sorry I don't have any of them, or any cocoa for that matter. Let's see what we have.

Dad: You could have toast with jam

Sarah: or maybe marmite if you're feeling adventurous?

Dad: Or maybe you would like some cereal with milk? Or how about a nice bacon sandwich?

Sarah: Maybe you would like to try my homemade muesli with yoghurt?

Dad: Or if you're feeling really hungry, you could try a full English breakfast?

Lorena: Full English breakfast? What exactly is that?

Dad: Well, it comes with toast, bacon, fried eggs, sausages, tomatoes, baked beans, mushrooms and traditionally it also comes with black pudding.

Paula: I'll have two slices of toast with strawberry jam.

Lorena: I'll give a full English breakfast a try, I'm starving this morning.

Sarah: Okay, it will take a few minutes, so can I get you something to drink while you wait? You can have tea, hot chocolate, orange juice or just plain old water.

Paula: Hot chocolate!

Lorena: I'd like a cup of tea, please.

Lorena: There's milk in my tea?!?! It's disgusting!

Sarah: You don't put milk in your tea?

Lorena: Sorry, no, I've never seen it before. It tastes very strange.

Sarah: I'll get you a pure black tea, then.

Dad: Here you are girls, dig in!

Paula: Lorena, how can you eat something like that in the morning?

Lorena: I think it's good to try new things!

Sarah: English breakfast doesn't have to be heavy and greasy; you could have it just with sausage, egg and tomato if you'd like.

Paula: I'll try it tomorrow then!

Dad: So, how did you like your breakfast?

Paula: I'm fine, thank you.

Lorena: It was good, but I'm a little stuffed.

Dad: Right you lot, scrape your plates and put them in the dishwasher. See you at the front door in 10 minutes, I'll take you to school.

Sarah: Alright dad!

Paula: Yes Mr. Henry.
